Faculty Position in Statistics/Biostatistics
Department of Mathematics and Statistics, Auburn University

The Department of Mathematics and Statistics at Auburn University is seeking a qualified individual for a tenure-track position at the level of assistant or associate professor in the area of Statistics or Biostatistics. The hire is part of Auburn University's cluster hiring initiative in Omics and Informatics and it has the potential for a joint appointment in another department with allied interests. This is a nine-month position and the desired starting date is August 16, 2017. Applicants must have a Ph.D. or equivalent degree in Statistics, Biostatistics or a closely related field. Postdoctoral research experience with an interdisciplinary research component and strong computational skills are desirable.

The successful candidate will be expected to: (1) develop her/his independent research program in Statistics or Biostatistics with emphasis on bioinformatics, (2) interact with and contribute to interdisciplinary research at Auburn University, (3) advise and mentor students, and (4) have a strong commitment to high quality teaching.

In addition, the successful candidate for this position will be expected to actively participate in Auburn University multidisciplinary Cluster Hire Initiative in the Omics and Informatics Cluster. New faculty expertise in Statistics or Biostatistics will complement the University's considerable existing expertise in these areas to form the core of this innovative multidisciplinary initiative. Participation in the Omics cluster will be an important component in faculty annual reviews.
