Lecturer in Discipline Positions Starting Fall 2019

The Department of Statistics invites applications for a position at the rank of Lecturer in Discipline that begins July 1, 2019. It is a full-time appointment with multi-year renewals contingent on successful reviews. This position is to contribute to the Departmental educational mission at the undergraduate and masters level.

Lecturers in Discipline are officers in the University who meet a programmatic need for instruction in specialized fields. The selected candidate will be expected to teach 3 courses per semester. A Ph.D. in Statistics or related field and a commitment to high-quality teaching at both the undergraduate and MA levels in Statistics and/or Probability are required. Experience with online education is desirable but not required. Candidates will be expected to participate in the full gamut of statistics education including curriculum improvement, modifying and developing courses, and exploring new strategies for the teaching of statistics.

The Department of Statistics at Columbia University is an extraordinarily vibrant academic community, which has been growing rapidly. The department currently consists of 30 faculty members, 50 PhD students, and over 300 MA students. For further information about the department and our activities, centers, research areas, and curricular programs, please visit our web page at: http://www.stat.columbia.edu

All applications must be submitted through Columbia's online Recruitment of Academic Personnel System (RAPS) and must include the following materials: cover letter, curriculum vitae, statement of teaching philosophy, research statement, evidence of teaching effectiveness (teaching evaluations), a sample of course syllabus and the names of 3 references into the system. Applicants also should arrange for three letters of recommendation to be uploaded on their behalf.
