Assistant Professor of Statistics (U.S. Naval Academy)

The Mathematics Department at the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis MD invites applications for tenure-track positions in Statistics (with a preference at the Assistant Professor level). The appointments will begin in the fall semester of 2020. The successful applicant must be strongly committed to teaching at the undergraduate level and to producing high-quality peer-reviewed research. A qualified candidate must be a U.S. citizen and have received a Ph.D. in an appropriate field no later than June 2020. Candidates with a commitment and demonstrated ability to attract and retain students from underrepresented groups (including women) are particularly encouraged to apply. Candidates are directed to our official job postings at https://www.usna.edu/HRO/ for details about the position and requirements (including a background investigation). Application review will begin on September 15, 2019 and will continue until the positions are filled.