Job Title: Assistant/Associate Professor of Reproductive Sciences

Company: Columbia University Irving Medical Center – Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology

Location: New York, NY

Summary Job Description: The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Columbia University Irving Medical Center (CUIMC) is recruiting a faculty member to join the epidemiology and biostatistics team. The rank (Assistant or Associate) and track (tenure or non-tenure) will be commensurate with credentials and experience.

The appointee is expected to perform the following functions: conduct research and seek extramural grant funding in women’s health and/or relevant biostatistical methods; collaborate with investigators in the OBGYN department by providing expertise in statistical methodology especially applying and/or developing data collection and analytic tools; provide statistical support/service to the OBGYN investigators and fellows; and mentor data analyst, programmer, research coordinator, and/or postdoctoral fellows in statistics.

Minimum Qualifications: Eligible candidates must have the following qualifications: a doctoral degree in Biostatistics, Statistics, or a related discipline; strong interpersonal skills; excellent written and verbal communication skills. For associate professor level candidates, a record of independent and collaborative research is required.

Preferred Qualifications: Training and/or experience in women’s health, medicine; be a team player capable of working in dynamic group environment; computer skills.

Please apply at the link below:

Columbia University is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer—Race/Gender/Disability/Veteran.